What is arts of change?

arts of change is a coaching programme for music and art students. For six years, it has been a platform for bringing together various disciplines from the arts and science with the goal of finding creative ways to explore the topic of sustainability.

Year 7 - Structure

Following the theme of Care & Action, students work on specific projects in small groups. They participate in three core modules and individual coaching sessions. As a finale, the artists co-create a symposium and the first edition of the programme's publication together with their coaches and experts from different fields of arts and science. Contributions to the symposium can cover anything from musical compositions to interactive art installations, sculptures, collective readings, workshops, and more.

How to apply?

Applications are welcome in both German and English, in any written or visual format. Send us your details (study programme, progress of studies, three selected works), a confirmation of your participation in all three core modules and your answer to the following questions to arts-of-change@forum-n.at by latest March 30th 2026, 11pm:

*What sparks your interest about collaborating with others from different fields and disciplines?
How would you as an artist or musician take future action to tackle the climate crisis, with special attention to care aspects?*
